

BATTLETECH EXTENDED - TACTICS

EXPANDED LORE PACK SCOPE

INTRODUCTION

I am a long time BattleTech player, having written both fiction and rules for BattleTech over the years. I also love the deep lore and the depth of stories that are and can be told within the setting.

When HBS launched BattleTech, I was in and backed the project. The creation of the Aurigian Reach, fitting so well into the larger canon, was one I deeply appreciated.

When the game expanded beyond the Reach, I looked forward to more in-depth story telling and the Flashpoints had some of that, though for me it was never enough.

In playing the various Mods, I found BattleTech Extended – Tactics to be my favourite. However, I have always felt there are parts of the Inner Sphere in BEX-T and parts of the timeline that are ‘Lore Deserts’, where time and space between flashpoints leave me wishing for more. BEX-T has the space and scope to accommodate that lore and that is the driving ambition behind this project.

I want to bring the joy in exploring that lore to more people, in what to me is the best of the HBS BattleTech mods, by using my experience and skills in complex story telling to help bring the stories of the BattleTech universe to life.

Blacknova

My Motivations

EXPANDED LORE PACKS CONCEPT

PRINCIPLE:	To give greater immersive depth to BEX-T through BattleTech lore.
AIM:	To create “lore aligned” campaigns and flashpoints that enhance player enjoyment in all eras of the BEX-T timeline.
OUTPUTS:	CORE: New campaigns, flashpoints and characters. POSSIBLE: New mission types and mod enhancements.
OUTCOMES:	Increased user numbers for BEX-T and enhanced enjoyment with the stories and characters developed through the Lore Packs.

Bringing the BEX-T Universe more depth

WHY THE LORE PACKS?

WHY:

As a 'lore bunny' more so than a tabletop player, the stories, characters and events of the BattleTech universe have always deeply engaged me. BEX-T scratches the surface of this.

THE GAP:

BEX-T, in being lore focused, provides a less dynamic experience than BTA or RogueTech, however, this provides a clearer, more stable approach to the universe. Both approaches have their advantages; however, I feel that BEX-T can grow into a more dynamic, yet still lore stable space via careful use of lore and potentially other tools.

OPPORTUNITIES:

As a lore bunny with every BT book up to the ilKhanate era, and with an eye for detail and ability to tell a story, there is so much more that I see is possible for BEX-T.

ISSUES:

As much as I'd like to think I can accomplish anything I set my mind to, unfortunately the Flashpoint creation process and more advanced modding have a steep learning curve. These have proved difficult for me to master and rapidly utilise to match my vision for bringing a deeper lore perspective to BEX-T.

BEX-T is great, but I have craved more from the lore

The Vision

CAMPAIGNS:

BattleTech has many big stories and tying Flashpoints together, as parts of large Campaigns that immerse players in the big events of the universe is key to the Expanded Lore Packs.

FLASHPOINTS:

The Flashpoints of the Campaigns are where the story is told, helping players feel that they are part of the grand events that inspired the Campaigns. This is where players can meet and fight with or against some of the iconic, or lesser-known figures of the BattleTech universe.

MISSIONS:

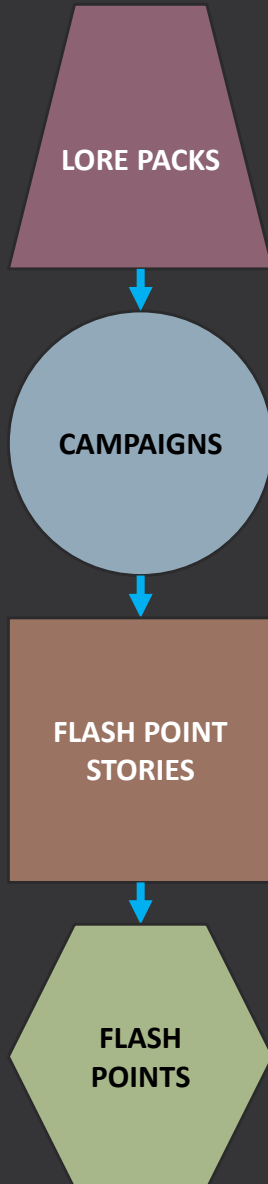

As part of the larger concept, new mission types could be explored to bring more depth to the story telling or to create some unique, climactic missions to complete campaigns.

ADDED DEPTH:

There are some elements of other major mods that provide good tools for increasing depth to BEX-T, without detracting from its focus on being true to the lore of BattleTech, or lore adjacent. Exploration of the possibilities would be something that could be considered at a later date.

Bringing deeper story to BEX-T brings more to the experience

The Approach

Lore Packs would contain several Campaigns and cover either specific time periods, like the Clan Invasion, or focus on a multi-era stories, like following Cranston and Rhonda Snord on their journey.

Specific Campaigns, such as Operation RAT or GOTTERDAMMERUNG in the 4th Succession War would tell the stories of major events within the context of a Lore Pack.

Flashpoint Stories tie a series of potential Flashpoints together. The interrelated tales link to a campaign and give players the choice of which Flashpoint Story within the Campaign they wish to be part of.

Individual Flashpoints give meaning to the Flashpoint Story and challenge players at the skill and equipment level they are currently operating at.

Immersion in the events through story telling and interesting missions

Era Overview

THE UNEASY PEACE (3025-3027)

Smaller campaigns and key character introductions help orient new players, provide early game story depth and challenges for players coming off the Arano story line.

4TH SUCCESSION WAR (3028-3030)

One of the 'big eras'. The Fourth Succession War offers opportunities across the Inner Sphere for immersion in deep and interesting campaigns.

THE INTERREGUM (3031-3040)

Starting quiet and ending big in the War of '39, this decade has many interesting Brush Wars to explore.

THE QUIET DECADE (3041-3050)

The Lead up to the Clan invasion is a quieter period, but one where original story telling can thrive.

CLAN INVASION

From the arrival of the Clans to Operation BULLDOG, this is a complex era with many excellent story telling possibilities from the Confederation to the Clan Occupation Zones.

CIVIL WAR

The Civil War era spans the Inner Sphere, offering many opportunities for clever and interesting story telling.

Making each era a standalone space makes all eras enticing

Proposed Lore Packs

Early Days	Pre-3028 Small Flashpoints
Snords and Swords	Following the wild exploits of Cranston and Rhonda Snord from 3025 onwards.
4 th Succession War	Davion/Liao, Steiner/Kurita, Dragoon and Dragon, Tikonov and Marik/Steiner campaigns
Brush Wars	Andurien, Rasalhague, the invasion of the Confederation and the rumblings in Skye.
Little Fires	The small battles and events through the 3040s.
Clan Invasion	Operation REVIVAL and adapting Bloodright as a Clan Partnership Campaign.
The Truce	Red Corsair, Refusal War, the Falcon Incursion and other events in the Inner Sphere
End of the Invasion	Operations BIRD DOG and BULLDOG.
Fall of the FedCom	The failure of the 2 nd Star League and the start of the FedCom Civil War.
Rise of Blake	The end of the FedCom Civil War and the rise of the Word of Blake.
Buzz Killers 	A lore-adjacent tribute to my son and his love of the Wasp (No accounting for taste...).

Big stories immersing players across the timeline

What is in a Lore Pack?

CAMPAIGNS:

The campaigns of the era

FLASHPOINT STORIES:

Multiple Flashpoint Stories that give life to the campaigns either as part of the Campaign or as a standalone accompaniment to it.

FLASHPOINTS:

Embedded in stories or as standalone interesting events within a Campaign/era setting.

CHARACTERS AND LORE:

New characters, art, conversations, chassis loadouts, lore and other material to immerse players in the campaign.

CROSS ERA PACKS

Some stories, like those of Cranston and Rhonda Snord and the Buzz Killers would transcend any one era. They could either form multi-era Lore Packs or be present in several different packs depending on the story being told. The Saga of the Grey Death Legion is an excellent example of this concept.

Building a Narrative so Players can Explore the Universe

An Example Campaign within a Lore Pack

The Campaign give players the opportunity to fight in some of the major battles of the Davion/Liao front of the Fourth Succession War.

The Flashpoint Stories focus on Operations RAT and RIPOSTE with additional specific special Flashpoint Stories and planetary Flashpoints.

Individual Flashpoints are based on actual planetary campaigns that were fought in the Fourth Succession War.

Note: Flashpoints in a Flashpoint Story would only appear if a choice is made in the initial meetings that provide a tag to the player's unit. All other Flashpoints/Flashpoint Stories would not appear. This enables replayability.

Davion/Liao Border in the Fourth Succession War

Tying Flashpoint Stories Together in Campaigns

FLASHPOINT STORY	Wave 1: Aug '28	Wave 2: Sep '28	Wave 3: No '28	Riposte: Dec'28	Wave 4: Jan '29	Wave 5: Apr'29	Wave 6: Aug'29	Wave 7: Nov'29
OPERATION RAT
Fox's Teeth 	Mira	Tikonov	Menkar		Foochow	New Macau	Matsu
3 rd Davion Guards *	Algol	Ningpo	Slocum		Azha
33 rd Avalon Hussars 	Liao	Genoa	Arboris		Woodstock
4 th Deneb Light Cavalry 	Aldebaran	Saiph	Zurich		Tall Trees
12 th Vegan Rangers *	Poznan	Buchlau	Kansu		Shipka	Wei	Palos	Tsinghai
CAPELLAN CONFEDERATION
Laurel's Legion 			Tigress	Kawich
Protectorate Guard 				New Aragon
Freemont's Cuirassiers *	Hunan			Halloran IV
Big MAC *			Arboris	Nopah
Special Operations 				Axton			Kathil (Sep'29)
UNLINKED FLASHPOINT STORIES
Eagles Against the Concord 					Menkalinan
Kathil Uhlans 							Kathil (Sep'29)	Sian (Oct'29)
Strange Mechs (ComStar) 					Sarna		New Avalon (Sep' 29)	Paying the Price

The campaign structure above gives players the choice of what parts of the Fourth Succession War on the Davion/Liao front that wish to participate in. Either lining up with AFFS units that fought large parts of the war, taking smaller, more interesting missions with the CCAF, or in pivotal story events from the conflict.

Fourth Succession War: Davion/Liao Front

Using Campaigns to Tell Different Stories

FLASHPOINT STORY	Flashpoint Story Approach
OPERATION RAT
Fox's Teeth 	Fighting alongside the best in the AFFS and developing the characters of McKinnon's Raiders – the Fox's Teeth.
3 rd Davion Guards *	Working with a “reckless” and highly skilled Davion unit in large scale battles.
33 rd Avalon Hussars 	Fighting with the workhorses of the AFFS and alongside the Blus Star Irregulars, showcasing line v mercenary unit issues with an SLDF prize at the end.
4 th Deneb Light Cavalry 	Engaging with some of House Liao's more interesting units and facing a serious biohazard in the process.
12 th Vegan Rangers *	After a quiet and routine start to the war, matters get harder and turn dark by the end of the Flashpoint Story .
CAPELLAN CONFEDERATION
Laurel's Legion 	Fight beside an all-women regiment that is forced to examine where its loyalties lie by the end of the war.
Protectorate Guard 	Fight alongside one of the best in the CCAF as it faces a reckoning against House Davion.
Freemont's Cuirassiers *	What happens when the regular troops of House Liao are faced with the impossible? Will some join you in the mercenary trade?
Big MAC *	Link up with McCarron's Armoured Cavalry and see if they are as devious and untrustworthy as people say.
Special Operations 	Join the CCAF's very best in striking blows against the Federated Suns as House Liao fights for its life.
UNLINKED FLASHPOINT STORIES
Eagles against the Concord 	Work alongside the Screaming Eagles as they try to rebuild their shattered reputation when the Free Worlds League intervenes.
Kathil Uhlans 	The birth of a legendary unit and two extraordinary missions will test even the best mercenary commands.
Strange Mechs (ComStar) 	A strange contact, advanced technology, black ops missions against dangerous targets and an employer who does not like loose ends...

The Campaign allows for numerous and varied Flashpoint Stories that will both interest and challenge players with mercenary units of all skill and equipment levels.

Fourth Succession War: Davion/Liao Front

Flashpoint Story Example (Complex)

Lead In Mission:
Touring Tikonov

Opening
On New Aragon [Meeting Only]

The choice made in meeting Ardan Sortek indicates which Flashpoint Story activates via tags given to a player's unit

Flashpoint Story:
Fox's Teeth

Flashpoint
Wave 1
No Action

Flashpoint
Wave 2
Tikonov
MG's Arm
Scts,
Ham's HL's

Flashpoint
Wave 3
Menker
Militia

Flashpoint
Wave 4
Foochow
Militia

Flashpoint
Wave 5
New Macau
Militia

Flashpoint
Wave 6
Matsu
Militia
(Revolt)

Flashpoint Story:
3rd Davion
Guards

Flashpoint
Wave 1
Algol
1st Ariana
Fusliaers

Flashpoint
Wave 2
Ningpo
McCrims
LC
NWH (MH)

Flashpoint
Wave 3
Slocum
McCrims
LC

Flashpoint
Wave 4
Azha
Militia (Large)

Flashpoint Story:
33rd Avalon Hussars

Flashpoint
Wave 1
Liao LuSaan,
1CRC, VC

Flashpoint
Wave 2
Genoa
Militia

Flashpoint
Wave 3
Aboris
Big MAC
(1st)

Flashpoint
Wave 4
Woodstock Militia
(SLDF)

Flashpoint Story:
4th Deneb Light
Cavalry

Flashpoint
Wave 1
Aldebaran
House Ijori

Flashpoint
Wave 2
Zurich
Trimaldi's
Secutors

Flashpoint
Wave 3
Saiph
Junstine's
Grenadiers

Flashpoint
Wave 4
Tall Trees
Militia -
Biohazard

Flashpoint Story:
12th Vegan
Rangers (Delta)

Flashpoint
Wave 1
Poznan
Militia

Flashpoint
Wave 2
Buchlau
Militia

Flashpoint
Wave 3
Kansu
Militia

Flashpoint
Wave 4
Shipka
Militia

Flashpoint
Wave 5
Wei Sung's
Cuirassiers
(SLDF/Bio)

Flashpoint
Wave 6
Palos
2nd Confed
Reserve
Cav

Flashpoint
Wave 7
Tsinghai
Prest Lan,
5th CRC

Note, the Kathil Uhlan and Screaming Eagle
Flashpoint Stories would spawn separately.

If not initial Flashpoint or Meeting Flashpoint are engaged with,
the semi-Flashpoints
would appear.

Operation RAT

Flashpoint Story Example (Simple)

Flashpoint Story:
Eagles Against the Concord

Flashpoint 1
Menkalinan
Screaming Eagles v
1st Marik Guard and Liao Militia

Though a simple Flashpoint Story, it allows for in depth story telling, via the disgrace of the Screaming Eagles on New Canton in Wave 3, and the unit's desire to recover its honour.

The Screaming Eagles Redeeming Their Reputation

What About Other Worlds in the War?

IDEA:

To make the whole scope of a conflict playable through very simple Flashpoints called Semi-Flashpoints.

STRUCTURE:

The Semi-Flashpoints of a campaign would be designed to sit alongside the main Flashpoint Story events and bring the rest of the battles into the picture for those players not seeking the longer and deeper commitment of the main Flashpoint Stories.

TWO TYPES:

Semi-Flashpoints would either be Planetary Assault or Planetary Defence processes.

DESIGN:

On accepting a Semi-Flashpoint, players would jump conversations straight to the contract screen where the first mission would be displayed. There would be several iterations of the base flashpoint structure to allow for variation across worlds and campaigns/eras.

Simple Planetary Assault and/or Defence Semi-Flashpoints

Semi-Flashpoint Structures

SEMI-FLASHPOINT ATTACK	A	B	C	D	E
Mission 1	Simple Battle	Fire Mission	Capture Base	Simple Battle	Assassinate
Mission 2	Simple Skirmish	Three Way Battle	Tables Turn	Simple Skirmish	Destroy Base
Mission 3	Crossing the Moat	Toppling Goliath	Dangerous Incursion	Destroy Base	Ambush convey
Mission 4	Capture Escort	Assassinate	Simple Battle
Mission 5	Destroy Base

SEMI-FLASHPOINT DEFEND	A	B	C	D	E
Mission 1	Simple Battle	Black Out	Defend Base	Simple Battle	Escort Single
Mission 2	Simple Skirmish	Three Way Battle	Simple Skirmish	Simple Skirmish	Defend Base
Mission 3	Defend Base	Dangerous Incursion	Fire Mission	Defend Base	Escort Convoy
Mission 4	Convoy Escort	Rescue	Simple Battle
Mission 5	Defend Base

The Semi-Flashpoints would be built in two standard sets of five to allow for a varied suite of missions across the worlds in a Campaign that are not part of the Flashpoint Story series of Flashpoints.

The bigger the battle, the longer the Flashpoint that would support it.

Fourth Succession War: Davion/Liao Front

Not Overcrowding the Map

PROBLEM:

Too many Flashpoints can overwhelm a player

SOLUTION:

The key is to use tags to reveal or hide both core Flashpoint Story arcs as well as show Semi-Flashpoints when no Flashpoint Story is active.

RESULT:

Enough Flashpoints to keep matters interesting in the local areas, without overloading the entire map.

REPLAYABILITY:

This also enables significant replayability across Lore Pack Eras and Campaigns while adding mystery to what different story pathways will reveal.

To Many Flashpoints and the Map Looks Like a Christmas Tree

[illegible]

The spacing of the different Flashpoints gives players lots of choice even when not in a Flashpoint Story.

Introductory Missions

Role:

These missions unlock the full core Campaign where players make the choice about which Flashpoint Story they will follow. For example: Operation RAT.

Design:

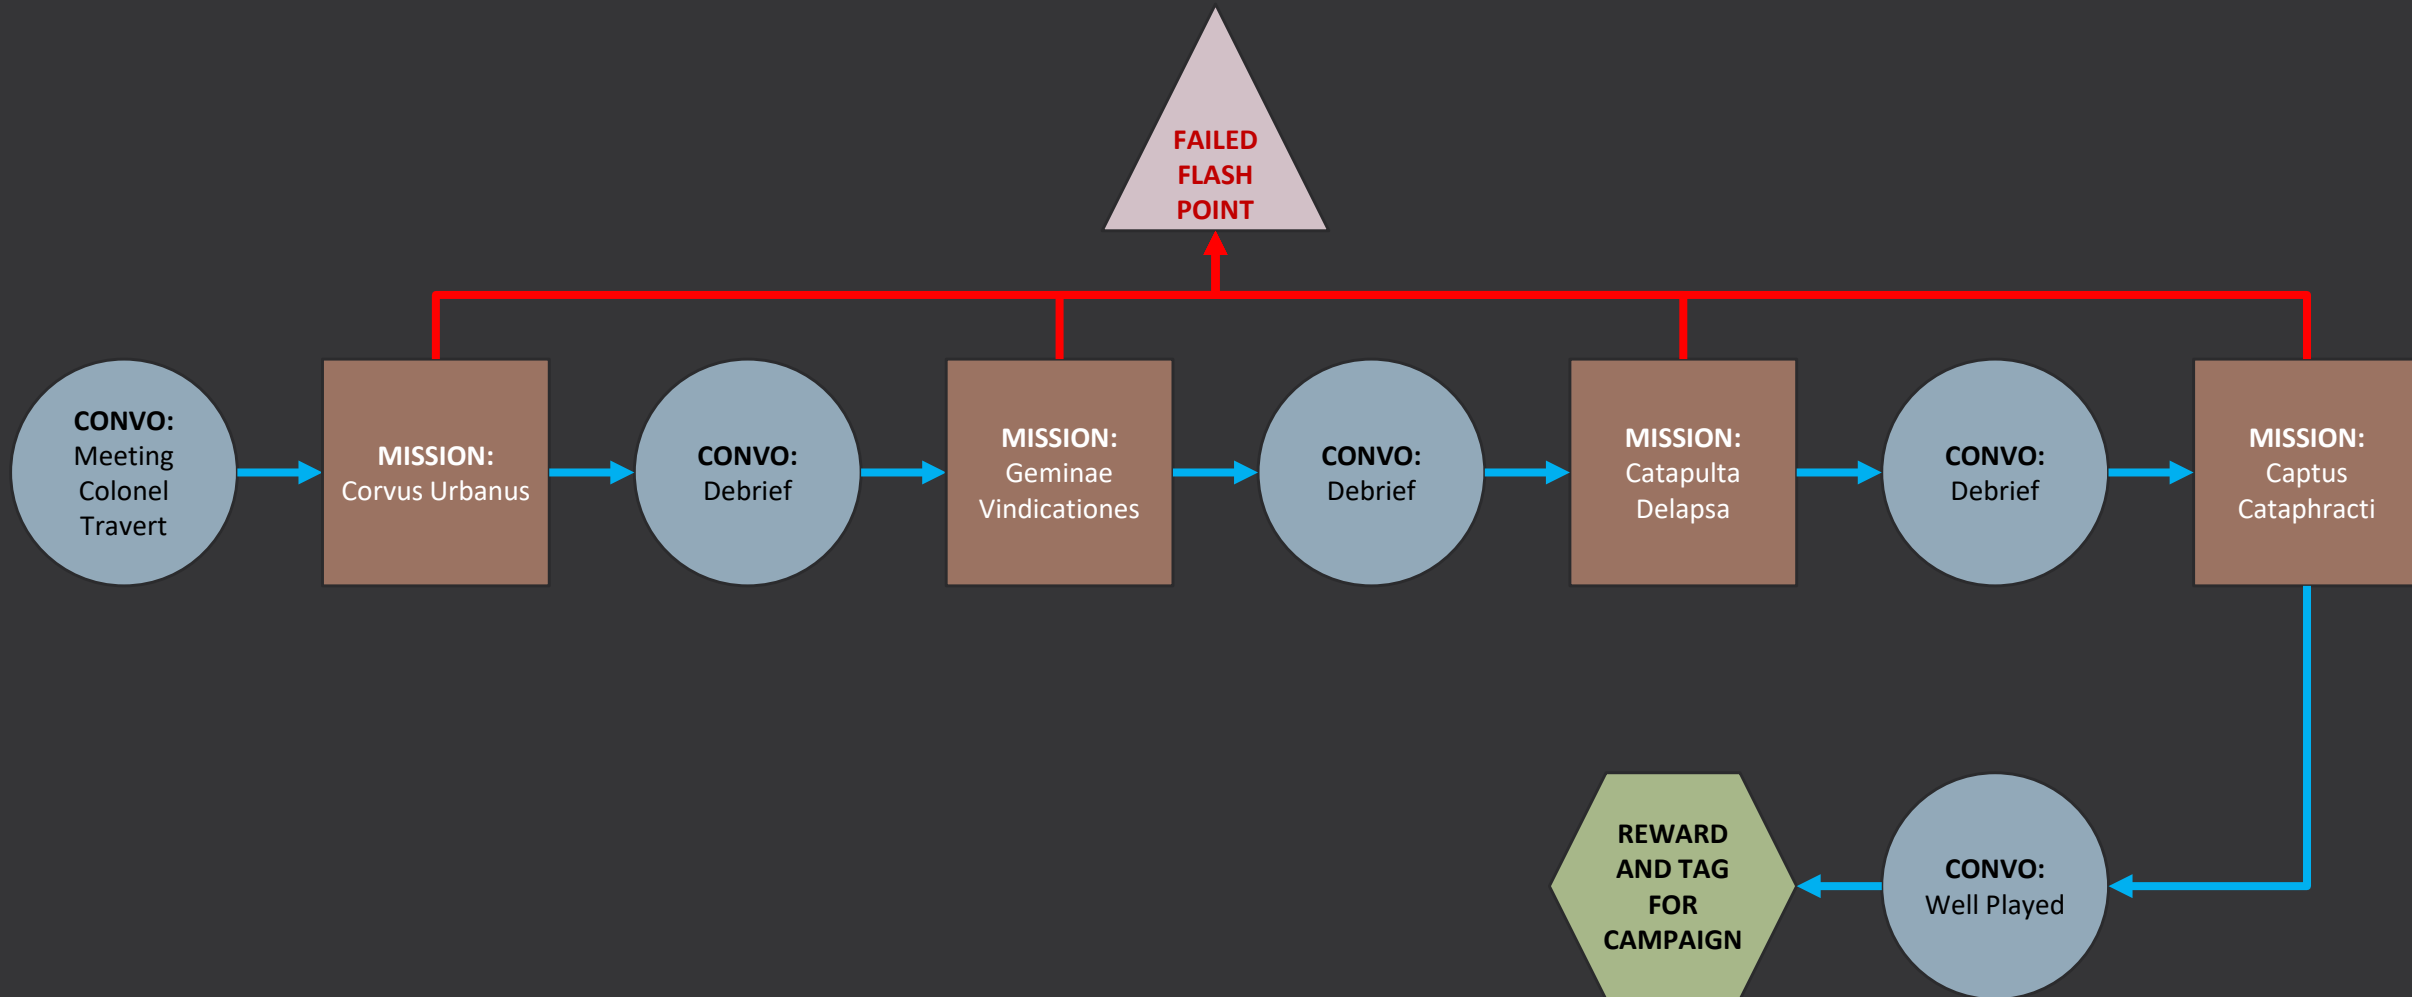

Asymmetric missions that challenge players and force them to make interesting risk v reward calls.

Story Telling:

Can be used to either introduce key major characters, set up key lines of story telling or both.

Making Each Era Playable for Mercenary Companies Just Starting Out

FLASHPOINT INTRO MISSION STRUCTURE: Touring Tikonov

[Start Date: 14-04-3028]

EXAMPLE FOR INTRO MISSIONS:

The player must move through four missions where they are scoping the defenders on Tikonov for the AFFS. These are designed to challenge new Companies formed in 3028.

Corvus Urbanus

City based mission in Bulan on Tikonov. The player's light lance must deal with a trio of Urbanmechs covered by a Raven, all from McCrimmon's Light Cavalry.

Geminae
Vindicationes

A pair of experienced Vindicators from the 2nd Chesterton Voltiguers are defending an outpost near New Moscow. The player needs to deal with them and move on.

Catapulta
Delapsa

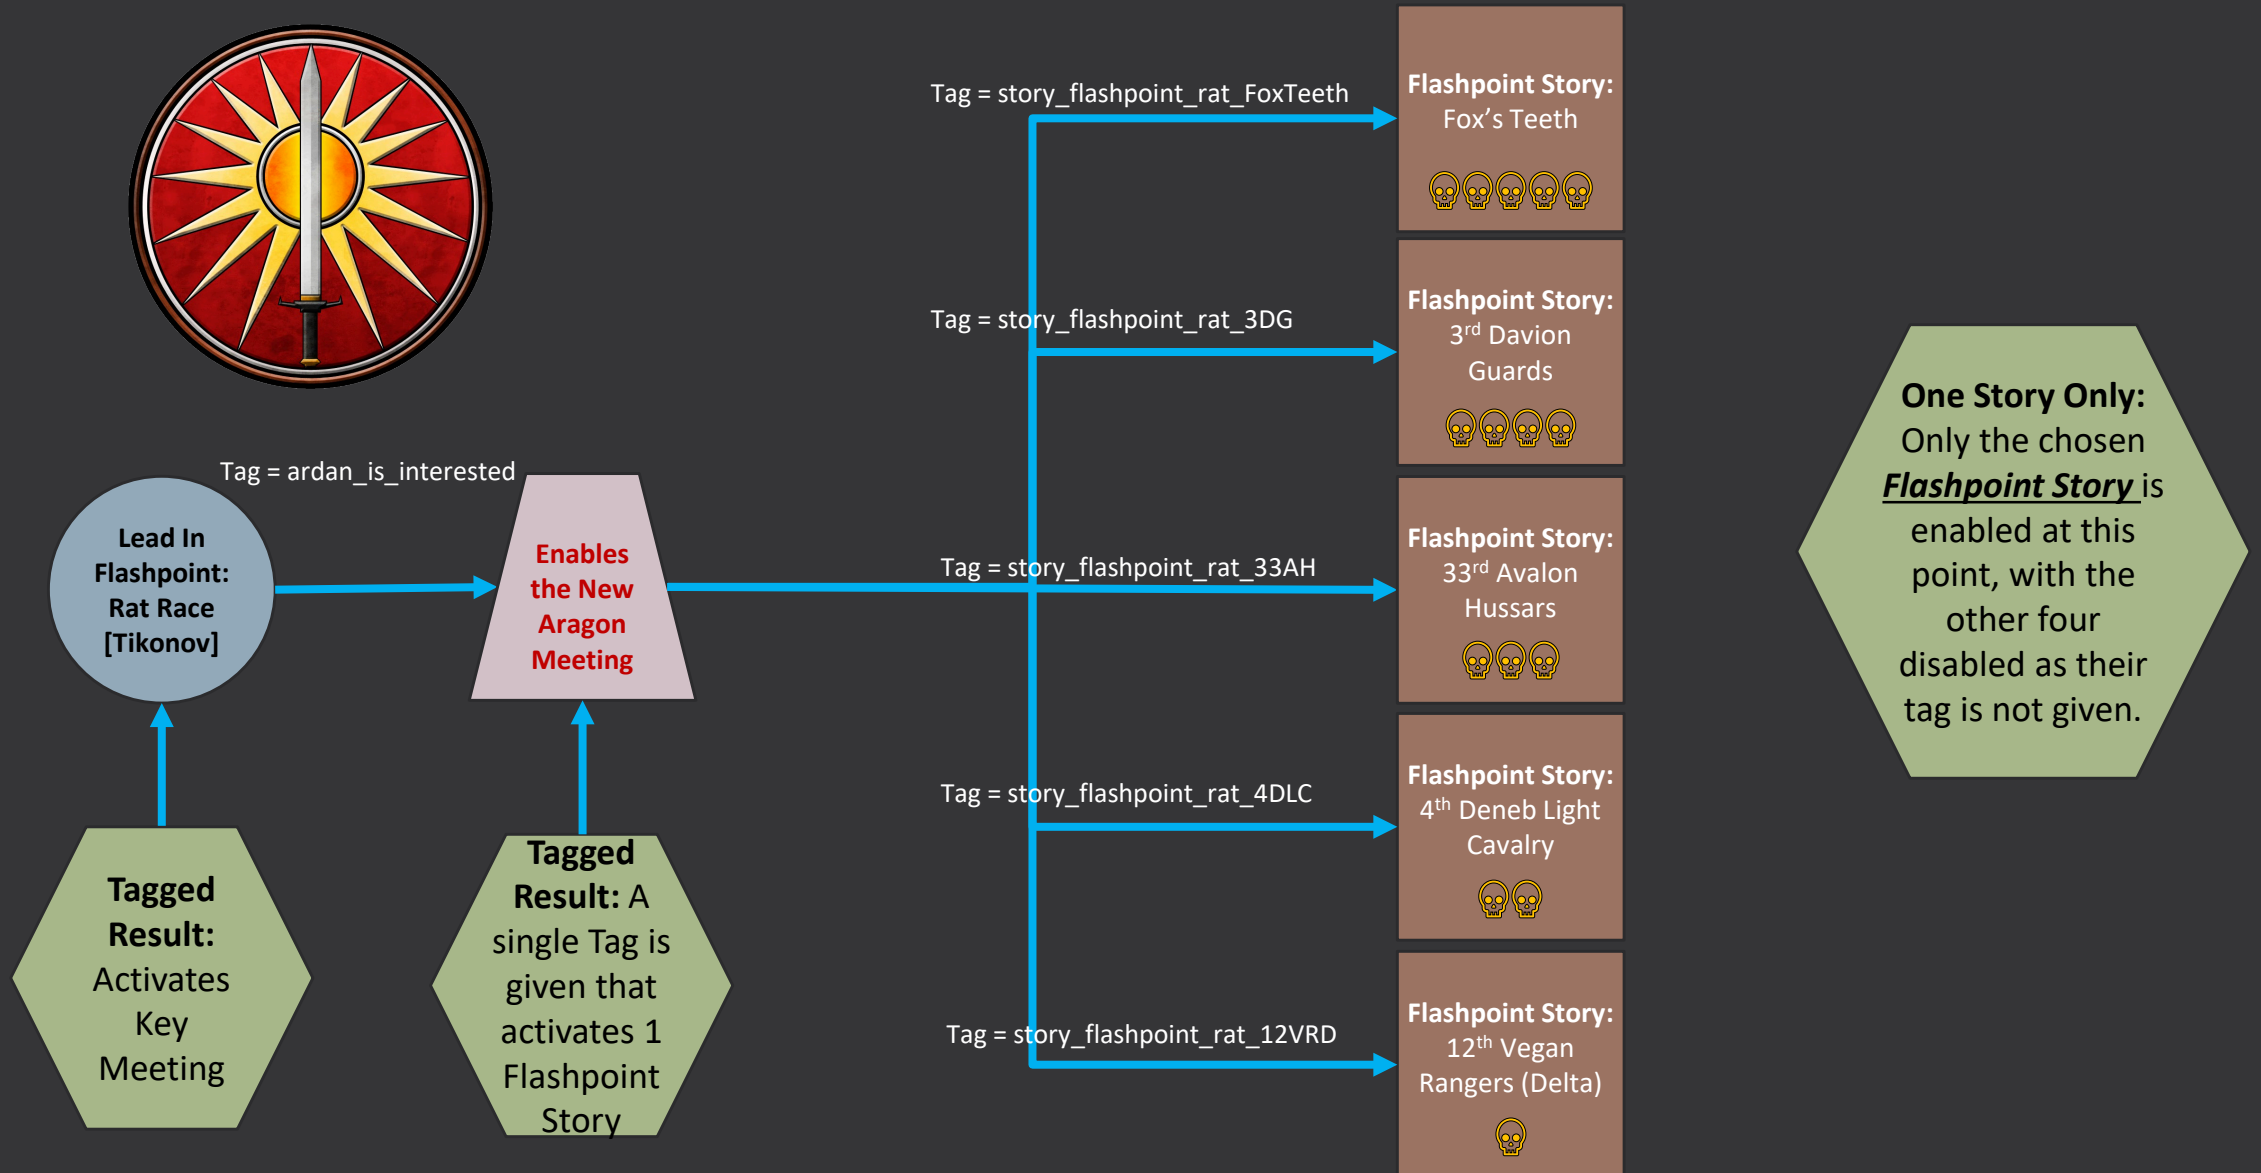

Moving north towards Arkhangelsk the player needs to deal with a lone Catapult and confirm that the 4th Tau Ceti Rangers are on world.

Captus
Cataphracti

The player has strayed a bit close too Tikograd and the AFFS needs them to pull back, but the player is now hunted by an elite pilot in a Cataphract from Hamilton's Highlanders.

Challenging Players to Make the Best Decisions in an Interesting Story

Functional Design Approach

Giving Players the Ability to Opt in or Out and Providing Replayability

Example Meeting Conversation: Part 1

A SOJOURN WITH SORTEK

Greetings commander, it is an honour to meet you, considering who sent your details. It's not often Colonel Travert says good words about small mercenary commands. That said, time is of the essence, I have many more mercenaries to meet and a wedding to get to.

It may be a blessing for you in arriving so early, as the list of jobs I have is long. You'll get first pick...if you're up to the task that is?

We appreciate your time Colonel Sortek, it's not everyday that we get to meet the First Prince's personal delegate. We won't waste your time, I'm sure {COMMANDER.LastName} feels the same.

Making the Story a Varied, Active Choice, not Simply an In/Out Binary

Example Meeting Conversation: Part 2

Excellent! I appreciate your willingness to get to business. However, from here on you will be sworn to secrecy. If we keep talking, you'll be confined to AFFS bases and forbidden from making any external communications.

Just as importantly, you will be committed for the duration of the coming operations. Whatever decision you make, you will be required to abide by. Essentially, the AFFS would be placing you on retainer to support one of our regiments for the duration. That means you fight when they fight.

We will pay you generously at the end of a two-year period, however, if you fail to join any of the operations of the BattleMech regiment you are assigned to support, there will be consequences, both financial and reputational. The former will be in respect of a $1 million dollar security, payable if you fail to partake in an assigned operation, the latter will be the cratering of your reputation with the House Davion.

Making the Story a Varied, Active Choice, not Simply an In/Out Binary

Example Meeting Conversation: Part 2

If you're going to these lengths Colonel, the contract must be lucrative and the opportunities worth the risk. What do you think, Commander?

[Decision: Decline, there's too much risk] Respectfully, we cannot be bound by to those terms, Colonel Sortek.

[Decision: Accept the requirements for secrecy] We agree to those terms, Colonel Sortek. Let's get to business.

I am glad you are willing to agree to my terms. Well then, let's put everything on the table. The AFFS is wrapping up Operation GALAHAD and preparing to move out. We're not going straight home though, we taking a detour through the Capellan Confederation.

Making the Story a Varied, Active Choice, not Simply an In/Out Binary

Example Meeting Conversation: Part 3

What kind of detour are you planning, Colonel?

Oh, you know, the usual tourist hotspots: Styk, Shensi, Poznan...Sarna and perhaps even a little visit by the Crucis Lancers to Tikonov. The invasion is called Operation RAT, and you are going to be part of it.

That is ambitious. Not only are you going for the throat, you're after the family jewels as well.

Making the Story a Varied, Active Choice, not Simply an In/Out Binary

Example Meeting Conversation: Part 4

Precisely, Mr. Oliviera. Much of the AFFS is ready to move or already is, and we need small mercenary units to support some of our key units on their campaigns. That is why you are here, and it forms the core of the offer I wish to make. We have five AFFS formations that need support and I want to know who you would prefer to work with.

The 7th Crucis Lancers have tough road ahead, but you'd be paired with McKinnon's Raiders for Tikonov. The 3rd Davion Guards are heading for Algol and some big fights. The 33rd Avalon Hussars are targeting Liao itself and have some other interesting assignments. The 4th Deneb Light Cavalry will see some solid action starting at Aldebaran. Or, you can work with other merc's and support Delta Regiment of the 12th Vegan Rangers on Poznan.

What mission do you choose?

[Decision: 7th Crucis Lancers] Fight with the best of the AFFS.

[Decision: 3rd Davion Guards] March with the Guards Brigade.

[Decision: 33rd Avalon Hussars] Put trust in the record of the Hussars.

[Decision: 4th Deneb Light Cavalry] Fight with those descended from the SLDF.

[Decision: 12th Vegan Rangers] Play it safe and work with other mercenaries.

Making the Story a Varied, Active Choice, not Simply an In/Out Binary

Example Meeting Conversation: Part 5

Excellent, the AFFS will be happy to have you along. You'll be assigned transport to get you to your destination, and I recommend you waste no time in getting there. Operations commence at the beginning of August.

Good luck, Commander.

I better get the nav computer online while Dr. Murad gets the ship warmed up. We won't have much time to be where we need to be Commander. $30,000 won't cover all the transport costs or monthly expenses, but that's the Great Houses for you, always leaving mercenaries to cover half the bill.

At this point, the unit would receive the relevant tag for the Flashpoint Story and have to move promptly to reach the next Flashpoint and their first official mission.

Making the Story a Varied, Active Choice, not Simply an In/Out Binary

Potential Eras and Campaign Overview – Early Period

THE UNEASY PEACE (3025-3027)

Planetary Campaigns: Stein's Folly, New Hessen, Poulsbo, Errai, Rollis
Big Names: Zaniah (Snord), Barlowe's End (Eridani v Wolf Dragoons and Ryuken), Chara/Styx (Genyosha/Kell)

4TH SUCCESSION WAR (3028-3030)

Large Scale Operations: RAT, GOTTERDAMMERUNG, HAMMER, DCMS offensives, RIPOSTE, HOLDUR, Tikonov offensive, CONTAGION
Planetary Campaigns: Misery (Wolfs Dragoons), Scarborough, Palladine, Sarna (ComStar), Nusakan (Kell/Genyosha), New Avalon (ComStar), Sian, Northwind (Highlanders), Dromini IV (Frederick Steiner)

Note that the campaigns listed are highlights only and not a comprehensive listing of all possibilities.

From old school BattleTech to the massive scale of the Fourth War

Potential Eras and Campaign Overview – Middle Period

THE INTERREGUM (3031-3040)

Large Scale Operations: Andurien Succession, Canopian/Andurien invasion of the Capellan Confederation, Ronin War, Circinus invasion of Illyria, Skye Crisis, War of 3039
Planetary Campaigns: Larsha, Gei-Fu, Larsha 2, Astrokazy, Dersidatz Muchison (Wolf's Dragoons), Hall (Wolf's Dragoons)

THE QUIET DECADE (3041-3050)

Large Scale Operations: Tortuga Campaign, Combine Reconquests, BALDUR, REVIVAL (Periphery actions)
Planetary Campaigns: Ko (ComStar/Skye), Hongor, Gan Singh, Lima, Solaris, Maxwell, C.M.O.26 (SLDF), Marlette, Menke, Pinard, Lima, Sarna, Ryde, Kaus Media, Westover, Larsha, Pingaree, Kalidasa, Wyatt, Gienah, Otisberg, Concord, Land's End, Ambergrist (Kell), Ingress, Benett III (Fox's Teeth), Huntington (Mystery), The Rock (Clans/Kell)

Smaller large campaigns, but may opportunities to tell new stories

Potential Eras and Campaign Overview – Late Period

CLAN INVASION (3050-3060)

Large Scale Operations: REVIVAL (Waves 1-4): Clans Jade Falcon, Wolf, Ghost Bear, Smoke Jaguar. (Wave 5): Clans Jade Falcon, Steel Viper, Wolf, Ghost Bear, Smoke Jaguar, Nova Cat. Bloodright Campaign, Marian invasion of Lothian League, Dragoon Civil War, Red Corsair Raids, 2nd Skye Rebellion, GUERRERO. Refusal War, Pirates War, Zion Rebellion, Terra, Coventry Campaign, BIRD DOG, BULLDOG

Planetary Campaigns: Radsdadt, Twycross, Rasalhague, Tamar Gei-Fu, Wolcott, Luthien, Alyina, Barcelona, Satalice, Tukkayid. Blue Hole, Matamorass, La Grave, Berenson, Glengarry (GDL), Cumbres, Northwind, Towne, Kaifeng, Spencer, Sirius, Procyon, Hustaing, Dark Nebula

CIVIL WAR (3061-3067)

Large Scale Operations: Capellan-St. Ives War, STILETTO. Combine-Ghost Bear War. Black Dragon attacks into FS, AFFS Assaults into DC, FedCom Civil, Archer's Avengers Birth, Marian Invasion of Illyria, Falcon Invasion of LC, AUDACITY, 3rd Skye Rebellion, Concordat/Protectorate War,

Planetary Campaigns: Detroit, Solaris VII, Kathil (F-C CW Start), 1st New Avalon, Axton, Tikonov, Dormandine, Courcheval, Giausar, Melissa, New Syrtis, 2nd New Avalon, Taurus, Tharkad, Small World, Charleston, Hyalite, Antallos, Luthien, Jihad opening attacks (New Avalon, Tharkad, Outreach)

Universe shaping events at all ends of the Inner Sphere